OPSEC

- Operations Security, or OPSEC, is the process by which we protect unclassified information that can be used against us. OPSEC challenges us to look at ourselves through the eyes of an adversary (individuals, groups, countries, organizations). Essentially, anyone who can harm people, resources, or mission is an adversary. Read here for more <http://www.dodea.edu/offices/safety/opsec.cfm>.
- Traveling in Europe this summer? Be aware of your surroundings and heed State Department warnings. Consider enrolling in the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program (STEP) to receive security messages and make it easier to locate you in an emergency. <https://travel.state.gov/.../alertsw.../europe-travel-alert.html>.
- Operations Security (OPSEC) Travel Tips
 - Don't Announce Your Arrivals: If you check into a service such as Foursquare or Facebook, do it when you are about to leave. You're still utilizing the service, but you're not announcing that you've just arrived somewhere.
 - Know Who You Follow: When using geolocation-linked social media networks such as Foursquare, only follow people you know personally.
 - Control Your Networking Universe: Don't connect any of those accounts to other accounts where you might have a more universal following, such as Twitter. Be conscious of where you're pushing your check-in updates.
 - Go Dark With Your Location: Turn off your mobile GPS when doing anything work-related — whether you're on base, in the field or elsewhere.
 - Put the Mission First: Keep in mind that any time you're on a mission or deployed, you're at work. Even if you're stateside and traveling for business, you should not be telling people where you are. Twitter, Facebook, and Foursquare are for personal time.
- Common Access Card (CAC) Scans: Do not let anyone scan your CAC, nor should you do it with your own phone. A CAC is in essence a 201 (personnel) file, meaning it contains Personally Identifiable Information (PII). When someone scans your CAC, they get it all. One more thing...your CAC/ID card is the property of the US Government. It is not yours to keep. When you retire or cease to serve actively, you will surrender it. You MUST safe guard it. Do not let anyone scan it!!!!!!
