INSTALLATION SECURITY OFFICE

- What is the difference between Suitability, Security, and Homeland Security Presidential Directive 12 (HSPD-12)?
 - The objective of suitability and fitness is the examination of individual personal character and conduct. Suitability answers the question "Would the person's employment in a covered position promote the efficiency and protect the integrity of the service?"
 - Fitness answers the question "Does the person have the required level of character and conduct necessary to perform work for or on behalf of a Federal Agency?"
 - The objective of security is a determination regarding whether employment would constitute a risk to national security. Influences such as foreign associates or ties are also considered in this determination.
 - Security answers the question "Does the person have personal conduct or influences that could affect or potentially affect his or her trustworthiness?" The objective of HSPD-12 is a determination that the individual is not known or suspected to be a terrorist and answers the question "Does the person pose an unacceptable risk to life, safety or health to persons, assets or information?"
 - Note that all of these determinations are distinct from the assessment of an individual's job qualifications. An individual may have the skills necessary for Federal employment, but he or she may not demonstrate appropriate standards of conduct for Federal employment. For any questions contact the USAG Italy Security office at DSN 637-8006/8033 or COMM 0444-61-8006/8033.
