A word from the editor

Things have been picking up lately on Caserma Ederle, headquarters of the U.S. Army Garrison Vicenza. There's been an uptick in traffic and pedestrians as units and offices transfer to their new workplaces on Caserma Del Din, arriving Soldiers and families can be seen trekking from office to office as they settle in to their new lives, and residents walk to and from the post pool, trying to beat the heat of summer.

Yet, in all the commotion, one formerly ubiquitous badge of the Vicenza Military Community is nowhere to be seen: The Outlook, the community newspaper, is no longer stacked at the mail room or the DFAC.

But The Outlook isn't gone; it's just gone seriously digital. To catch up on the latest news and features from the Vicenza and Darby Military Communities you need an electronic device and an Internet connection.

Since dropping our print edition in April, Public Affairs has tackled the design challenges to make the online-only publication as interactive and user-friendly as possible. Each week, as a new issue posts to the web, our colleagues in the garrison Installation Operations Center send the link to Soldiers and civilians, while the Public Affairs Office adds it directly to the garrison's website, www.usagvicenza.army.mil

After four months on the journey to digital, now may be a good time to ask you, our readers, to let us know what you think. How has The Outlook online been working out for you? Let us know at editor@eur.army.mil

For those who wish to track down or browse previous issues, an online archive is easy to reach from the garrison home page; click on the Archives link beneath the page banner and select Outlook Archive. The direct link is <http://www.usag.vicenza.army.mil/sites/local/outlook.asp>

Finally, we bid farewell to our colleague and friend, Joyce Costello. As social media manager for the PAO, Joyce was a key player as we transitioned to our e-publication format. She is off to pursue a doctorate in social media at Bournemouth University, England, where we trust she will make significant contributions, and hope she returns one day to Army Public Affairs, where her intelligence, humor and determination to meet matters head on will always be welcome.

Ready and Resilient Beating alcohol abuse

Lt. Gen. Donald M. Campbell Jr.
U.S. Army Europe Commander

Over the last few months I have had the opportunity to visit several units within U.S. Army Europe and speak with commanders and leaders, both military and civilian, at every level. I am continually impressed by the world-class Soldiers and civilians that we have in our work force, accomplishing a complex, strategic mission here in Europe every day.

That's why it's especially difficult for me every morning when I review the Military Police blotter reports from across USAREUR. Whether it is an assault, sexual or otherwise, a DUI or other types of misconduct, many incidents involve alcohol. The correlation is not coincidental. Heavy drinking and overindulgence in alcohol is a challenge that we must address directly and personally as leaders. I want all leaders at every level to talk to your teams about the responsible use of alcohol; set conditions that encourage subordinate leader and peer support; and personally engage your Soldiers.

I am certain that if we reduce overindulgence in alcohol we will reduce acts of indiscipline, which run counter to our Army values, and save lives. Abuse of alcohol is all too often an indicator of underlying issues that require vigilance and intervention from leaders at every level in the chain of command. Our most precious asset – our people – deserve nothing but the best care and support. At the first and earliest indicators, take action and get our teammates the resources they need to get back on track.

This is a winnable fight. Continue to talk to your Soldiers, civilians and families about the hazards of overindulgence in alcohol and the consequences of that behavior.

Establish barracks security protocols and conduct no-notice walk-throughs of common areas at random times. Care about your Soldiers, civilians and family members at all times, on or off duty, in the barracks or off-post.

Together we can combat these problems that degrade our profession and destroy lives.

I hold leaders responsible for instilling the essence of our Army Values and Warrior Ethos in their Soldiers. They are not words on a card, but rather a way of life. We must be disciplined and adhere to our standards if we are to retain our public trust and represent our country honorably here in Europe.

Bank opens on Del Din

By Grant Sattler
USAG Vicenza PAO

Residents and commuters to Caserma Del Din can now conduct daily banking transactions at the recently opened facility in Vicenza.

"Today is huge for the Soldiers in barracks here on Caserma Del Din," said Jane Jackson, senior banking center supervisor for the Del Din Community Bank, which officially opened Monday. "They can come here for all their financial needs daily."

A staff of five will provide the full range of banking services provided by Community Bank on overseas installations.

Officials from Bank of America/Community Bank, U.S. Army Garrison Vicenza, 173rd Infantry Brigade Combat Team (Airborne), 509th Signal Battalion, NAVFAC and the Transformation Construction Management Office and others joined to cut the ribbon opening the new facility in the Multi-use Building, Building 10, located between the two parking structures on Del Din. Acting USAG Vicenza Commander Chuck Walls said the branch provides a much needed personal interaction for Soldiers that the multiple ATMs across the installation can not.

"This is crucial as already 60-65 percent of our Soldiers are here on Caserma Del Din," he said. "Opening this Community Bank branch is a valuable start for Bank of America as the contract bank for DFAS in providing crucial services to our Soldiers, along with Global Credit Union and the Italian BNL."

Collective effort, community benefit

Walls, Jackson, Bank of America representatives Terri Rooney and Shane Parkinson, and Yolonda Montgomery, vice president and banking centers manager for Del Din and Ederle, all thanked the many who worked diligently to ensure the opening of the banking center, the first new Community Bank in six years. With nearly 80 banking centers and more than 320 ATMs on bases around the world, Community Bank is operated by Bank of America to provide stateside-like banking services to service members and contractors who are stationed overseas.

The Del Din Community Bank is open Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and closed on American holidays. The phone number is 637-2265 or 0444-92-5981.

Army Ten-Miler holds lottery for slots

By Military District of Washington Public Affairs

WASHINGTON - The annual Army Ten-Miler race will hold a special online lottery for U.S. service members through Aug. 15. Lottery registration will be conducted online at www.armytenmiler.com and 500 registrants will be randomly selected for a slot by a computer-generated drawing to be held Aug. 16.

The Army's 29th annual Army Ten-Miler race is scheduled for Oct. 20 in Washington, D.C., beginning at the Pentagon. The prestigious annual event attracts 35,000 military and civilian runners from around the world. It is the third largest 10-mile race in the world, and all proceeds benefit Soldier and family MWR programs.

The lottery is open to all U.S. service members. Applicants must use a .mil email address when registering.

Registrants will be required to enter a valid credit card, but will not be charged unless selected. By Aug. 20, all registrants will receive an email notification stating whether they were selected or not. The searchable database on the Registration/Confirm tab of the Army Ten-Miler website will be updated Aug. 23 with the names of the runners who have been selected.

Lottery winners who are unable to run may transfer their registration through the Army Ten-Miler Transfer Program until Aug. 30, or join a team until Sept. 6.

August is Antiterrorism Awareness Month

Army Leadership Message

“There is nothing so likely to produce peace as to be well prepared to meet the enemy.”

– George Washington, 1782

August marks the Army’s fourth annual observance of Antiterrorism Awareness Month. We have worked hard to confront the ever-present threat of terrorist attacks against our nation and our Army.

Since we began observing Antiterrorism Awareness Month, we have greatly improved our community awareness and understanding of the seriousness of the terrorist threat. Over the past year alone, we’ve improved threat information sharing, revised our Antiterrorism Strategic Plan, integrated antiterrorism into the Army Protection Program, and identified new focus areas, such as cyber threats. All of these actions have helped us heighten awareness of the persistent threat posed by terrorists and encouraged our vigilance to prevent acts of terrorism.

As we continue to improve our efforts each year to keep our Army family safe, we have learned that every member of the Army community must play a role in this important mission. Effective antiterrorism measures require a combination of great leadership, a professional police force and active community involvement.

We must all be vigilant, continuously watchful for threats and hazards, and prepared to report them when we see them. We must also remain aware of our situation and our surroundings, noticing when something or someone seems out of place. Maintaining vigilance and encouraging situational awareness are guiding principles that will help ensure the safety and security of our Soldiers, civilians, families, infrastructure and information.

Leaders at all levels should provide support to the two important focus areas of this year’s observance: encouraging the reporting of suspicious activity, and improving the use of social media for community outreach.

We encourage all commands to sponsor events and promote steps that embrace a community approach to safeguarding our Army. The strength of our defense is our ability to work as a team to protect our people and our installations.

Army Strong!

Vicenza AT Awareness Contest

As family members of Soldiers and the civilians, we are all stakeholders in our collective security here in the Vicenza Military Community. Tell us in an essay about the steps you take to protect yourself, your family and personal information on social networking sites. Remember, it takes a community to protect a community.

Essays should incorporate the above title and explain how and why we are all important to our collective security.

All essays must be submitted by Sept. 24 at 5 p.m. Entries will not be accepted after this time.

All Vicenza Military Community school students in grades six through 12 are eligible to enter. Essays must be original work and must be prepared by one author only. Only one submission per person, please.

Entries may be handwritten or typed and must be a minimum of 150 words. Entries must be submitted by email or in person at the Antiterrorism Office in Building 109, Room 112, on Caserma Ederle. Send email entries to carl.o.turner.civ@mail.mil

A panel of judges will select the winner and runners-up based solely on essay submissions with names removed. First Prize: a $50 AAFES gift card, Garrison Commander’s Coin and Certificate

Second Prize: a $25 AAFES gift card Garrison Commander’s Coin and Certificate

Third Prize: a $25 AAFES gift card and Garrison Commander Certificate

Please include your name, phone contact number and email address with your submission. In addition to the monetary and honorary prizes, winning essays will be posted on the USAG Vicenza AT website and in the September issue of the USAG Vicenza Force Protection Newsletter.

EAST LONDON, South Africa - Paratroopers from Company C, 1st Battalion, 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment, 82nd Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N.C., joined with the South African 1st Parachute Battalion, 44th Parachute Regiment, to perform a night parachute drop and airfield seizure exercise at Bulembu Airport July 27 during joint training for Shared Accord 13. Shared Accord is a biennial, U.S. Army Africa supported, training exercise involving in-depth joint cohesion between U.S. and South African military forces incorporating multiple training scenarios designed to promote regional relationships, increase capacity and further cross-training and interoperability.

U.S. and South African paratroopers glided across the starless night sky from C-130 aircraft before landing. Once on the ground, Soldiers were undetectable to the naked eye. After the initial drop, the paratroopers assembled with their units and began seizing the airfield while facing simulated attacks of resistance.

The joint team shared one mission, though each unit had a separate objective, either the north or south portion of the airfield, said 1st Sgt. Patrick Doherty of Charlie Co.

"The two forces, as they worked hand in hand, were able to seize the overall company mission. Both objectives were neutralized within 25 minutes," said Doherty.

One unique aspect to the exercise was that the entire 3rd Platoon of Charlie Company worked jointly with South African soldiers to seize the airfield.

"In a division," said Doherty, "it's very rare for a platoon to jump organically, and this was one of the few times they got to jump every single member in that platoon."

The U.S. and South African parachutists began training together July 20, practicing small unit tactics and airborne operations, said Doherty. During that time U.S. Soldiers were able to see firsthand where and how South African Soldiers hone their skills.

"All the other countries have techniques that we can benefit from," said U.S. Army Capt. Craig Arnold, commander of Charlie Co.

"Going to the South African airborne school and seeing how they train their soldiers was impressive," said Doherty. "They have a very impressive facility and a very professional organization."

Through their joint practice and knowledge exchange, the units achieved the central goal of SA 13, he said.

"We're both here to learn," said U.S. Army Maj. Chuck Slagle, executive officer of 2nd Armored Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division, from Fort Riley, Kan. "The South Africans have a lot of experience and really we're just sharing. We're improving each other through this exercise."

"It's interesting to learn their skills and they can learn ours," said South African Army Pvt. Chad Pullen, 2nd Field Engineering Regiment.

"It's been a good experience being in South Africa," said U.S. Army Spc. James S. Blank, a rigger with 11th Quartermaster Company from Fort Bragg, N.C. "They've been very hospitable."

Cool get-together on a hot night

Americans meet the neighbors at annual year-end event

More than a dozen members of the USAG Vicenza Better Opportunities for Single Soldiers and volunteers from Vicenza Military Community made the short trip down the road to support friends and neighbors at the annual end of year celebration at La Fraglia Aug. 1.

La Fraglia is an educational and rehabilitation center established in 1991 that provides a variety of support programs for children and adults with disabilities.

Planning for the annual event began in June and included a barbecue, recreational activities, a musical performance and the participation of more than 250 people.

"It was wonderful," said Chuck Walls, acting USAG Vicenza commander. "It has passed my expectations to see so many single Soldiers out there to support the La Fraglia event."

Giovanni Rigno, the facility association's president, said "Here at La Fraglia we have currently 50 members and 25 assistants. We repeat this event every year at the end of our annual program. We are so happy to have our American friends, our neighbors here again and we are really thankful for their helpfulness and cooperation."

This year's celebration was the third time BOSS and community members participated.

"This year we prepared more than 450 servings of meat including both hot dogs and hamburgers," said Staff Sgt. Anthony Williams, USAG Vicenza BOSS president. But the barbecue was only one highlight of the evening.

Children and adults enjoyed the dunk tank Soldiers brought to the La Fraglia celebration.

Pfc. Bella Dick of the Vicenza Dental Clinic was first to wind up sitting in the dunk tank.

"I came here tonight to volunteer with BOSS. I wanted to give back to the community that I live in and get to know the locals," she said.

After members of the Caserma Ederle Fire Department had filled the tank, Dick was asked to check if the water was OK.

"I went up and they pushed me in and the kids got so happy I didn't want to get back out, so I stayed in. This is my first experience and I love the idea of getting together. I think it would be cool if we did it more often. The people here are very friendly," she said, drying off with a towel.

Coming back year after year

"This is the third year I am coming and every year the event is getting better and better," said longtime volunteer Davide Ghiotto. "There is music, good food, but especially a lot of fun and smiles and this is very important for La Fraglia members."

One source of the smiles and good vibes was an Italian band that performed several songs before introducing special guest Kevin Boucher, also known as "Elvis," who has come to be a repeat attraction at La Fraglia celebrations.

"A few years ago I was invited to come out here and do my Elvis Tribute for the fantastic folks at La Fraglia," said Boucher. "I can't believe they came and asked me again if I would do it this year. I couldn't say no. It is such a privilege to be able to come out here and do something for them. I hope they enjoyed it and I would love to come back out and do it for them again," he said as he posed for pictures with his fans.

"This year again we renew the friendship between members from the American and the Italian community," said La Fraglia educator Damiano Nonato. "More than 250 people gathered here to listen to some music, eat the tasteful specialties offered by BOSS and cooked on one of the hottest days of the summer, and to share and talk about our life experiences."

"For our members this event is a very important get-together. Our participants after the first moment of shyness look forward to becoming friends and like to show their friendship through their smiles and hugs."

"Sharing moments like this is important for all of us, families and volunteers, and we would like to continue to share them during other occasions throughout the year. Come and visit whenever you can, we will always be happy to see you and we will communicate our thankfulness, forever," he said.

"Definitely, we look forward to continuing this strong relationship with La Fraglia members and their families," said Walls.

Camp Darby BOSS travels to Barcelona

Story and photos by
Amy Drummond
Special to The Outlook

Two DMC BOSS travelers pose for a photo in front of Antoni Gaudí's world famous Sagrada Família basilica, which is still under construction, in Barcelona. The group (opposite) view the sights with the help of a tour guide during the summer weekend trip July 25-28.

Getting away for the weekend can be great for single Soldiers and Airmen, especially if you move in a group and make new friends.

More than 30 members of the Darby Military Community Better Opportunity for Single Soldiers program did just that July 25-28 when they traveled to Barcelona, Spain, to see the world from a slightly different perspective. Of the 32 BOSS members, 22 were Airmen and 10 were Soldiers.

The travelers arrived in Barcelona in the evening, just in time to experience the nightlife of the second largest city in Spain, and one of the most architecturally interesting in Europe.

"My favorite thing of all was the nightlife and the clubs," said Patrick Hoffman. "There were so many people out late."

Several Airmen and Soldiers said they had been thinking about traveling to Barcelona for a while.

"I was thinking of planning a trip to Spain, but when this BOSS trip came up, I jumped on it," said Addarrel Stokes.

On their first full day in Barcelona, the group enjoyed a three-hour tour of famous sites and landmarks, including the world famous architectural treasures of Barcelona.

"It was nice having the guided tour because you don't have to worry about finding destinations," said Declan Blackman. "It was nice to have a big group and not having to worry about transportation."

After the tour, the Camp Darby crew were given free reign of the city, so long as they were ready to leave Sunday morning. Quite a few claimed they didn't want to leave, and enjoyed sharing their stories of sightseeing, picture taking, beaches visited, and people, food and fun.

Great way to see the sights

"BOSS trips are a great opportunity for single Soldiers and I will encourage my Soldiers to go on future trips," said Stokes. "It is a good opportunity to go out with friends and people I've seen around work to see new things, and nice to go out with a group."

Trips can be expensive to put together, and BOSS helps Airmen and Soldiers find an affordable way to see a bit of Europe, said MWR BOSS adviser Jimmy Roddy. BOSS adventures are in part subsidized by fundraisers the organization puts on throughout the year, he said.

The Darby Military Community BOSS Council organizes the trips and manages the contracts involved so the Soldiers and Airmen don't have to. Service members decide where to go and what to do.

"BOSS has trips, or if not a trip then some sort of event, every month," said Christina Bergeron, BOSS vice president. "We pick the locations by asking the service members where they want to go, or if it was a good trip last year we do it again."

The DMC BOSS program is unique from other installations in that it is not only for Soldiers; Airmen and "geographic bachelors" are welcome to join in, said Roddy.

Single service members who would like to find out more about the DMC BOSS program, and community members who would like to reach out to single service members, can call Roddy at 633-7438 or 050-54-7438.

The next BOSS trip is scheduled for Sept. 27-28 to Oktoberfest in Munich.

FERRAGOSTO

Ferragosto, or Assumption Day, which falls on Thursday, Aug. 15, is one of the most important Catholic holidays celebrated across Italy. Its great sanctity and widespread observance are due to it being the day on which Our Lady, the Virgin Mary, was Assunta in Cielo: in other words, transported directly to heaven. It is generally known across Europe and around the world as Assumption Day. As is the case with many other Christian holidays in Italy, Ferragosto has pagan origins, in this case dating back to the year 18 B.C., when the Roman Emperor Augustus declared that the entire month of August would be dedicated to the Feriae Augusti, a series of festivals and celebrations. And while observations have evolved over the centuries, still today Italians like to take some of their Ferie during the month of August as holiday and leisure time. Many Italians head to the beach or the mountains, so there's likely to be lots of traffic along the coast and other highways leading to popular destinations. Public offices and stores are generally closed. Many towns and resorts celebrate their local festivals and conclude the holiday with fireworks.

Open Sunday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tickets are €13; €11 for children.

Event listings are as reported at press time. Details are subject to change without notice. Check before you go.

TUSCANY

Fiera di San Casciano

From the Middle Ages until modern times, the Fair of San Casciano was a major commercial and cultural magnet for the rural inhabitants of Tuscany and continues today as a genuine celebration of contemporary Tuscan cultural heritage. This year the fair begins Aug. 9 with live musical entertainment. The morning of Aug. 13 features a display of antique tractors, farm animals, tools of the agricultural world and a chance to cross the Arno River from San Casciano Terme to Uliveto Terme in a rowboat. That evening will cap the gathering with fireworks on the banks of the river.

The Square under the Moonlight

The Leaning Tower and nearby Monumental Cemetery in Pisa are presently open on summer nights, making it possible for visitors to view the architectural treasures of the Square from a unique perspective. From now until Sept. 1 these attractions are open seven nights a week from 8-10 p.m. Tickets are €18 for entry to the Leaning Tower and the Monumental Cemetery with its painstakingly restored medieval frescoes; €5 for entry to the cemetery alone. Last entry is at 9:30 p.m. each night.

Artisti per Autistici — Artists for Autism

La Polveriera, a local association providing artists with workspace, will host a charity exhibition on its premises in Pietrasanta through Aug. 10 for the benefit of the Dalia Center, a non-profit children's mental healthcare organization. The exhibit features a silent auction of art by mentally challenged and autistic students of the Devereux Foundation in New York. La Polveriera is located at Via Sant'Agostino 53, Pietrasanta (LU), and is open Monday to Friday from 1-5 p.m. Call 347-993-8651 for information or email info@lapolveriera.org

Volterra A.D. 1398

Every year in August, the beautiful Tuscan hilltop town of Volterra reverts to the Middle Ages for the Volterra A.D. 1398 medieval festival. The entire town dresses in costume and medieval trades, professions, music and food are on display everywhere. You can even rent a costume for the day, exchange your everyday euros for some grossi (medieval coins) and have a good time spending them. In a country that has some of the greatest costume festivals in the world, the Volterra festival is widely recognized as one of the best. This year's edition takes place from Sunday to Sunday, Aug. 18-25. Entrance is around €10 for adults, €5 for under 18 and over 60, free for children under 10. Don't miss it.

Puccini Festival

Through Aug. 24 in Torre del Lago near Viareggio. This year's program features Tosca, Turandot and Rigoletto. The full schedule and details are online.

Palio di Siena

The Palio of Siena is a living tradition of the city linked to the life of the Sienese over time and in its various aspects and feelings, and still bears the marks of rules established in 1644, the year in which the first race with horses was held. This year's second Palio will be held Aug. 16 beginning at 7:45 p.m. in the beautiful Piazza del Campo. The city is divided into 17 quarters, the boundaries of which date back to 1729, which compete against one another for victory. The Palio is an historic event, not to be missed.

Area markets

Lucca, about 50 km. north of Pisa, holds its monthly antique market Aug. 18 and the third Sunday of every month.

Livorno conducts its main market every Friday in the Via dei Pensieri, from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The Livorno Central Market is open daily from 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. with a lunch break from 1:30-3:30 p.m. The fruit and vegetable section of the market closes at 1:30 p.m.

In Pisa, the historic Piazza delle Vettovaglie in Pisa offers a daily food market just a block from Borgo Stretto, the main pedestrian shopping street. Hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. daily.

The town of Tirrenia conducts its summer market on Tuesdays until the last Sunday in September from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Piazza dei Fiori.

Visit the VMC community calendar for the latest event details and updates at www.usag.vicenza.army.mil

All incoming and returning DoDDS-Europe students must register for the school year that begins Aug. 26. Stop in to any school office for details and assistance with registration, bus transportation arrangements, athletic physicals and the like.

School sports physicals

The U.S. Army Health Center will be doing school and sports physicals for children without any chronic conditions Aug. 14, 21, 28. To make an appointment, call 0444-61-9000.

Housing Office closure

Due to the Ferragosto holiday Aug. 15 and furlough and Italian rest day on Aug. 16, the Housing Office will be closed both days. On-call, 24-hour emergency service will be available for power loss, water and gas leaks, lockouts and other bona fide emergency by calling the Garrison Installation Operations Center at 634-7867 or 0444-71-7867. This applies to Villaggio housing, government-leased quarters and private rental housing. House viewings will still take place both days with housing taxi-interpreter services, but appointments must be made prior before the closure. Customers who need to terminate housing on Aug. 16 or are leaving that weekend and need temporary lodging allowance approval should contact the Housing Office before Aug. 15. Call 637-7950/7951 or 0444-61-7950/7951 for assistance.

Robert Clarke, DPW director

Meet Robert Clarke, the USAG Vicenza's new director of Public Works. Clarke arrived in Vicenza around six weeks ago from Wiesbaden, Germany, where he had worked for three years. Clarke is a retired Navy civil engineer, who worked in Sicily with his previous job. Clarke studied Italian at the Defense Language School and his wife has been previously stationed in Naples with the Navy. Clarke said he is very excited about being back in Italy and working with the DPW employees. "I think we have a great team here and I feel extremely fortunate to join such a great garrison," Clarke said. "We have faced many challenges with this long, hot summer and I'm looking forward to working with our new customers." You can find Clarke in Building 12 on Caserma Ederle or reach him at 634-7606 and by email at robert.s.clarke.civ@mail.mil

VHS slugger scores in Italian youth baseball

Story and photos by Greg Veazey
Special to The Outlook

While American-based baseball and softball teams in Germany get to participate in Little League playoffs for a berth in stateside World Series tournaments, it's a bit different south of the Alps.

One American high school player from Vicenza was recently selected to play for the Veneto region's All-Star team in the Italian equivalent of championship play, the Torneo delle Regioni, or Tournament of Regions.

Louis Veazey, Vicenza High School freshman pitcher and shortstop, played as a starter in the Italy-wide tournament in Nettuno, Italy, at the end of June. Winners from the regional competition proceed to compete for a European-African-Middle East championship on the path to a potential berth in Junior Little League tournament play in Michigan.

Veazey got off to a nervous start, being the only American on a team of 14 made up of players from throughout Veneto region. He was unsure about communicating with his new teammates across the language barrier, but baseball has a language of its own. By the time they got off the bus in Nettuno and broke the ice socializing, his

Nettuno is known as the Home of Italian Baseball, and signs testifying to the fact can be seen all over the city. There are at least six baseball fields scattered around town, including the home field of Danesi Nettuno, one of the IBL (Italian major league) teams.

The connection between the townspeople and America's national pastime has its roots in World War II, when American Soldiers came ashore at Nettuno and nearby Anzio at the end of January 1944 in the Allied assault known as Operation Shingle.

The GIs of the day taught their new Italian friends the sport of baseball as they built various bases around Nettuno and the Sicily-Rome American Cemetery and Memorial, the final resting place of more than 7,800 Americans who lost their lives freeing Italy from dictatorship. The cemetery and memorial is a beautiful site to visit and honor their memory, a recommended stop if you're not watching baseball.

Meanwhile, Veazey played a good tournament, batting .333 (fourth best on his team) and scoring 4 of their 39 runs over four days of play. The Veneto squad finished fifth out of 10 teams in their division, being eliminated by the Emilia-Romagna squad which went on to win the tournament.

Wait till next season

The coach from Treviso was so impressed with the Veneto team that he plans to start practicing with the nine returning players so they can do even better next year. Veazey, who also plays with the Vicenza area Palladio baseball team, may be one of his starters.

The Palladio team practice all year long and will take part in three-day, Vicenza-sponsored, under-17 tournament beginning Aug. 16.

The American community is warmly welcome to come out, watch and support. Vicenza high school age baseball and softball players interested in the possibility of playing are free to contact the writer for information at veazeyg@yahoo.com

Married outside the Church?

Catholics who married in a different Protestant church or in the town halls by a justice of the peace, are not married in the eyes of the Catholic Church. In order to regain privileges associated with the Church, such marriages must be convalidated in the Catholic Church. If it is the first marriage for both parties, the convalidation process is simple. For more information contact Fr. Fleury.
