ACAP is now called SFL TAP

By Bryan Tharpe

Fort Rucker Soldier for Life Center

The Army's Human Resources Command recently announced that the Army Career and Alumni Program has changed its name effective immediately to Soldier for Life Transition Assistance Program (SFL TAP).

This change was announced June 20 by Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Raymond T. Odierno, to better reflect the new direction of Army transition.

Soldiers should not be confused when they contact their formerly named ACAP Center and hear the voice on the other end of the phone responding with the new name. Likewise, they should not be confused when they receive a memo or email from the newly named agency.

The services rendered by SFL TAP are not changing from what they have been since the inception of the Veterans Opportunity to Work Act, which came into effect in November 2011. The mission to support Soldiers as they move forward through the course of their careers, and the mandated VOW Act requirements, timeliness and career readiness standards will remain the same.

Soldiers need to get into a new mindset of "once a Soldier, always a Soldier," said Army officials. Beginning Oct. 1, a new piece of Army transition, the Soldier for Life Program, will come into effect and Soldiers will begin to be introduced to transition principles early on in their service, and at set points throughout their military careers.

Currently, most Soldiers wait until they are near the end of their careers to find out about post-service transition information, but the Army feels this is too late. The goal is to have all Soldiers prepared to transition out of the Army and into a great civilian job regardless of whether they serve the nation in uniform for three years or 33 years.

New private rental fee being implemented

By USAG Vicenza Housing Office

All occupants of private rental housing are advised that a new service fee called Tassa Servizi Indivisibili or TASI for short, has been established by many Comune (municipalities) in Italy as authorized by the new Italian Law #173.

This TASI for indivisible services such as night time illumination, street cleaning and painting, rodent control, grass cutting or tree pruning in public areas and streets, etc., is not to be confused with refuse collection and is a separate new fee.

The December 2013 law has caused confusion and controversy in Italy. There was a last minute attempt to make Italian Law #173 effective in June 2014, but only some Comune were able to start the administration thereof. Many Comune have deferred the enactment of the law until the September-October time frame. Calculation of the charges is complex and some of the wealthier Comune have elected not to charge residents TASI.

The Vicenza and Darby Military Communities have U.S. personnel residing in more than 50 different Comune and each is handling this new fee differently. This makes it even more difficult for the Housing Office to provide private rental housing occupants the correct information.

Italian Law #173 stipulates that if a local Comune decides to charge this fee, it must be paid by both landlord and tenant. Each Comune may decide the percentage to be paid by each party, but normally the tenant's portion will be a lesser amount (10-30 percent of the total). Payments are to be made twice a year.

If occupants of private rental housing who receive notification in the future from the Housing Office regarding the TASI fee, it will be to pay the renter's portion of the cost. Presently it is not legally possible to negotiate this cost into the rental agreement. However, for military personnel, it should be automatically covered in the utility recurring expense portion of the Overseas Housing Allowance and for civilians with LQA, this should be a bona fide reimbursable expense.

For additional information call the Housing Office team at 637-7900/7901/7902.

173rd Airborne Brigade attends Polish air show

Story and photos

by Capt. Fernando Ochoa

311th Sustainment Command
(Expeditionary)

SWIDWIN, Poland - Paratroopers from the 173rd Airborne Brigade attended the 21st Air Base Air Show June 28 in Swidwin, Poland, an event marking the 30th anniversary of the addition of the Polish Sukhoi-22UM fighter to the country's aircraft fleet.

Hundreds of area residents were on hand to see their air force conduct aerial maneuvers, watch a parade of airmen replete with a marching band and view a variety of related display booths.

"We are honored that American Soldiers are here to help us celebrate this very special day," said Lt. Col. Tomasz Chukowshi, 21st Air Base chief of logistics. "We are happy that we are receiving support from such a valuable NATO ally."

Over the past two decades the Polish air force has steadily built its forces, and by 2012 had increased its number of planes to three squadrons of fully operational, American built F-16 fighter aircraft.

More than a walk in the woods

"I am happy we were included in this celebration. I think events like this, meeting and enjoying the company of Polish leaders, is more important than strapping on gear and going into the woods," said Maj. Nathan Williams, operations officer with 1st Squadron, 91st Cavalry Regiment, 173rd Airborne Brigade. "Being in Poland is an opportunity to conduct joint exercises with a valued NATO partner to reassure them that we are a committed ally."

The Polish air force's 21st Air Base Tactical Wing is set to begin training with Sky Soldiers from the 173rd Airborne Brigade and aviators from the 12th Combat Aviation Brigade for the next several months to demonstrate commitment to NATO obligations and sustain interoperability with allied forces.

"Offenders & Victims Trauma, Deception, and Impact"

Within every military unit and civilian population, there lies the possibility of an insider threat by sexual predators and violent offenders. By examining the methods, tactics, and motives of offenders, we can learn how they operate. Offenders often have a great capacity to fool not only their victims, but chain of command, mental health and criminal justice professionals as well. We are not as safe as we think. What we don't know will hurt us...and those we try to protect. Attend and find out how you can stop this behavior in our community.

Darby celebrates the Fourth

Darby Military Community PAO

Wherever there is an American there is a celebration, and for those who live in the Darby Military Community, the American Beach is the perfect environment to celebrate special events.

That was the case once again when the DMC opened its heart and its gates to give its many Italian neighbors the opportunity to share the uniquely American traditions of the Fourth of July.

"This year's attendance was over 1,000 persons," said Ernest Beezley, Camp Darby DMWR manager. "There were games and volleyball tournaments, everything planned to entertain the people from the morning to 10 p.m., when the water and light show started. And we had nothing but compliments."

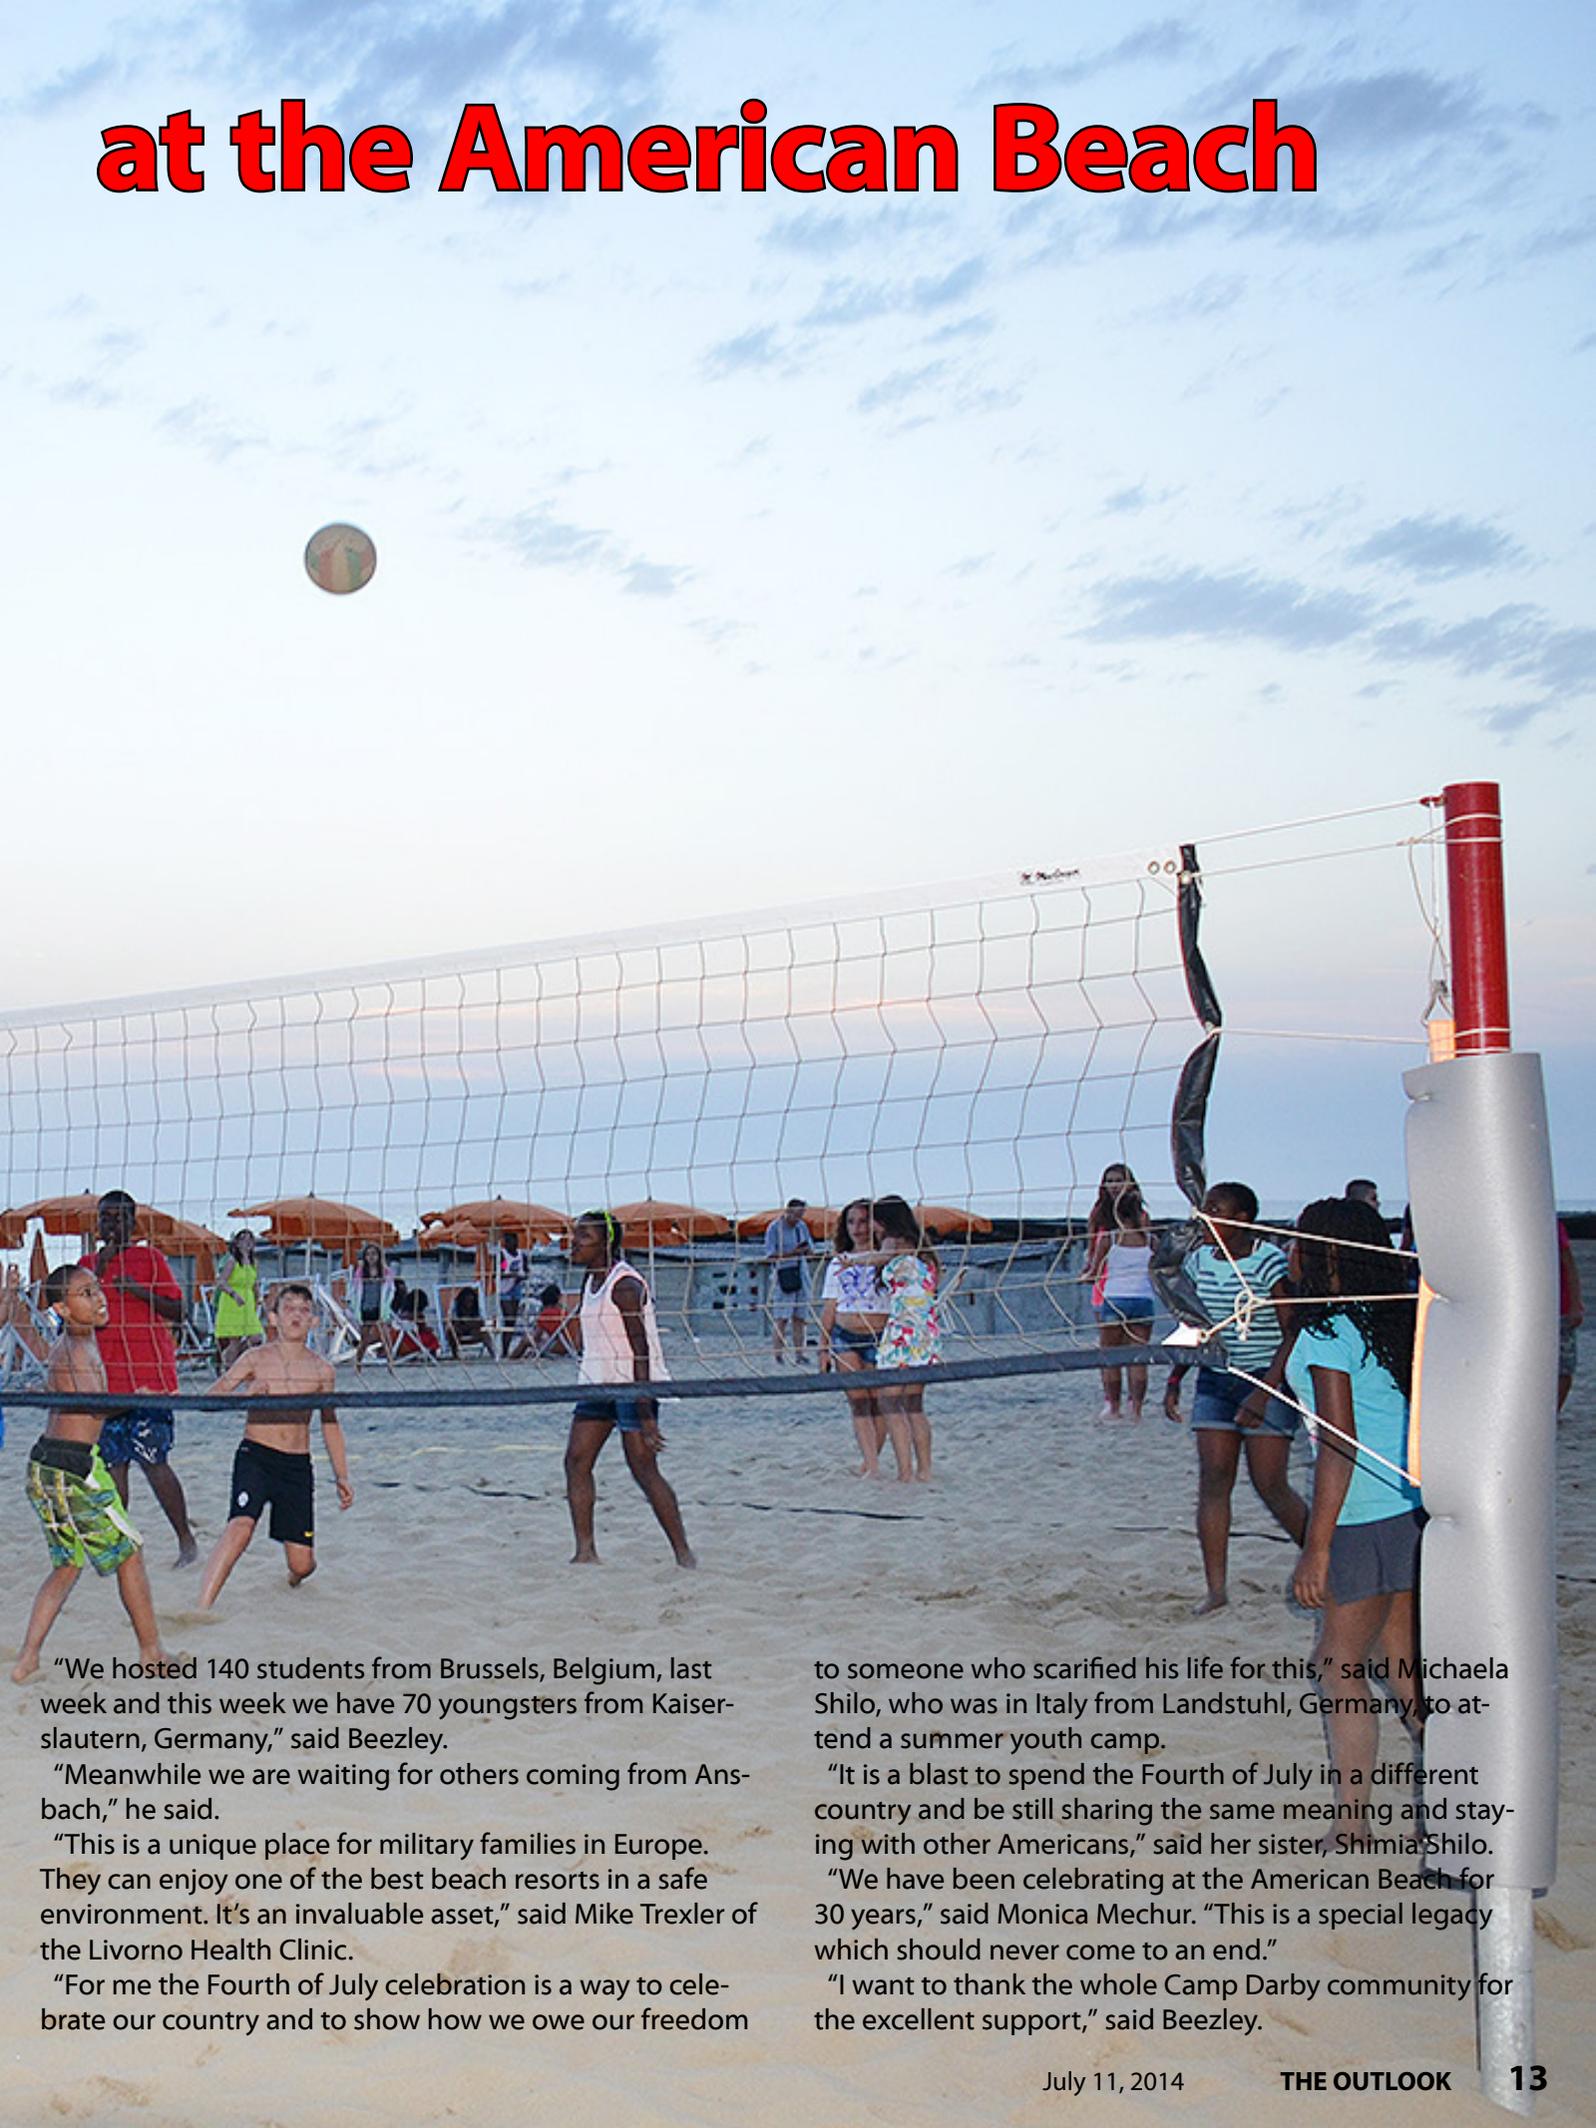

The tug-of-war, volleyball and dancing were the most popular attractions this year, and after an evening barbecue, at 10 p.m., the magic atmosphere of the dancing fountains entertained the public until the disco time. Then the party continued with dancing on the sand and under the pavilion, and the disc jockeys were always in the loop.

"My special thanks go to DJ Andrea Andreotti, who was incredibly able to understand and please the music taste of both the Americans and the Italians," said Beezley.

Camp Darby is the destination of choice for many students from across Europe to spend their summer vacations, and more than 70 who were taking part in a Youth Center summer camp were on hand to enjoy the Fourth of July celebrations at the American Beach.

at the American Beach

"We hosted 140 students from Brussels, Belgium, last week and this week we have 70 youngsters from Kaiserslautern, Germany," said Beezley.

"Meanwhile we are waiting for others coming from Ansbach," he said.

"This is a unique place for military families in Europe. They can enjoy one of the best beach resorts in a safe environment. It's an invaluable asset," said Mike Trexler of the Livorno Health Clinic.

"For me the Fourth of July celebration is a way to celebrate our country and to show how we owe our freedom to someone who sacrificed his life for this," said Michaela Shilo, who was in Italy from Landstuhl, Germany, to attend a summer youth camp.

"It is a blast to spend the Fourth of July in a different country and be still sharing the same meaning and staying with other Americans," said her sister, Shimia Shilo.

"We have been celebrating at the American Beach for 30 years," said Monica Mechur. "This is a special legacy which should never come to an end."

"I want to thank the whole Camp Darby community for the excellent support," said Beezley.

Darby brings home Ammo Bowl trophy

Story and photos by Amy Drummond
Special to the Outlook

When it comes to softball, there's nothing quite like the Ammo Bowl, which was held this year at Camp Darby over the Fourth of July weekend. The annual tournament is unique in that only teams consisting of Air Force munitions Airmen and their immediate family members participate. This year six teams took to the Darby Military Community playing fields for the 28th annual edition of the games.

"This is an ammo tradition that has been going strong for the past 28 years here in Europe and will continue next year as we host it again," said Tech. Sgt. Casey Hearn of 731st Munitions Squadron.

This year's Ammo Bowl started with the posting of the colors and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by Jessica Pleasant of 731st Munitions Squadron. Maj. Tracie Martin, 731st Munitions Squadron commander, threw out the ceremonial first pitch.

On opening day teams played for fun and held a home run derby, but on day two the competition got serious. Ammo team players showed their own unique brand of camaraderie and support by heckling members of every team that came to the plate, including their own. In the event of strikeouts, the offending player was made to wear a tutu or bra, depending on variations in the team rules.

"Everyone played hard, but the Darby A team, also known as the Darby Boars, battled hardest and went undefeated throughout, scoring 151 runs in all versus 64 for their opponents.

In the final game against Ramstein, the Boars trampled the competition 17-7 and returned the Ammo Bowl trophy to Camp Darby after a three year residence at Aviano Air Base.

This year's tourney went very, very well with a total of six teams competing," said Hearn. "Everyone really enjoyed the icebreaker at the Darby Community Club and if it weren't for Jim Fiore that wouldn't have been possible."

U.S., Italian teens team up on Del Din courts

By Anna Ciccotti
USAG Vicenza PAO

More than 50 Italian teens from the Vicenza San Giuseppe basketball team and 20 American peers from the Vicenza Military Community came together for a week of intense basketball instruction and cross-cultural camaraderie at the Del Din Fitness Center in the week leading up to the Fourth of July.

"This exchange between the Italian and U.S. youth originated with the Vicenza military youth basketball team traveling around the Vicenza area, playing against several Italian youth basketball teams," said Capt. Jamaine Williams of U.S. Army Africa's Operational Protection Directorate, who coaches VMC teens in basketball on an ongoing basis.

"I volunteered to help teach some of the Italian youth American style defense and this relationship grew over the year as my son, Jamaine Williams II, became a player on the San Giuseppe basketball team. The San Giuseppe coaches and I organized the camp together," he said

The 70 or so basketball enthusiasts got to practice and play while getting to know each other as people from June 30 through July 1 at the top-notch Del Din facilities.

"We are very pleased with this initiative that satisfied all participants while bringing together parents, friends and local media," said Luigi Petucco, coach and director of the San Giuseppe team.

"The American coaches put a lot of emphasis on the athletic training, the technique of the fundamentals and also on the psychological training of the players, transferring to them energy, passion, self-restraint and a willingness to give themselves a chance to succeed," he said.

"This was a great event for us both. Our communities share common interests and goals: good family values, education and basketball," said Williams.

"The Italians were exceptional basketball players and had wonderful attitudes," said American coach John Bratcher, a personnel recovery specialist with USARAF and a co-coach of the Vicenza High School Cougars basketball team.

"For Capt. Williams and myself, we have been working on post with several different basketball programs and there have always been opportunities to play against some of the local Italian teams. We love the camaraderie, competition and sportsmanship it builds with all of the kids," he said.

"As for the Del Din fitness center, we had never seen anything like this. Both we and the children were literally amazed by the high level of the facility. There is nothing like this anywhere else in Italy. This is truly a fantastic gym," said Petucco.

Ready to do it all again

"It was absolutely an experience worth repeating," said San Giuseppe player Sofia Cavedon. "The activities were very engaging, but also very useful because I got to meet many other youths who share my great passion: basketball."

"I was very impressed with the skills of the Italians and their genuine love for the game," said Bratcher. "We hope to do this again next summer as well."

"The American coaches were extremely impressed with the Italian youth players, both male and female, and their skills and talent at basketball. All of the players, both U.S. and Italian, have one common thread that unites us all and that is a true love and passion for the game of basketball," said Williams.

"It has been truly an amazing experience, which will stay with me forever," said San Giuseppe player Alessandro Petucco. "It helped me meet new people, improve my English and most importantly it has been a priceless lesson, experience of life."
