Health Clinic addresses community Ebola concerns

U.S. Army Health Center Vicenza

The Ebola outbreak that is currently reported as a global health emergency by the World Health Organization is centered on four countries in West Africa: Liberia, Guinea, Sierra Leone and Nigeria.

At this time, there have been no reported cases of Ebola in Europe. The Vicenza Health Center staff remains trained and prepared to respond to Ebola in the unlikely event that an individual becomes infected.

Becoming infected with Ebola virus is extremely rare, particularly in the United States and Western Europe, in part due to standardized infection control practices. Ebola virus can only be transmitted to others through direct contact with blood or body fluids from an infected person or exposure to objects (such as needles) that have been contaminated with infected fluids. Only symptomatic persons infected with Ebola can transmit the virus.

Ebola virus disease (formerly known as Ebola hemorrhagic fever) is a severe, often fatal illness in humans and nonhuman primates, with a death rate of up to 90 percent. This current outbreak has a lower case fatality rate than previous outbreaks, at approximately 53 percent. The Ebola virus is transmitted human to human. Ebola outbreaks occur primarily in remote villages in Central and East Africa near tropical rainforests. The current outbreak is the first one known to occur in the West.

According to the National Center for Medical Intelligence, the risk of Ebola transmission to U.S. personnel in the West Africa area is low, even during an extensive outbreak in the local population. Casual contact does not transmit infection. Person-to-person transmission requires direct contact with the blood or bodily fluids of an ill patient, as people are not contagious until symptoms appear.

Symptoms of Ebola may appear anywhere from 2 to 21 days after exposure to the virus and typically include fever, headache, vomiting, diarrhea, muscle pain, stomach pain, unexplained bleeding or bruising.

There is no FDA approved medication or vaccine currently available to protect against Ebola infection. Standard treatment for Ebola is still limited to supportive therapy. This consists of balancing the patient's fluids and electrolytes, maintaining their oxygen status and blood pressure, and treating them for any complicating infections.

In summary, there are no reported cases in the European region; the risk would still be low (negligible) even if there were cases in Europe, according Lt. Col. (Dr.) Pamela Ward-Demo, Infectious Disease Physician from the Office of the Command Surgeon at U.S. Africa Command in Stuttgart, Germany. Ebola is not airborne and can only be transmitted by direct contact with the body fluids of a person who is sick with the disease.

"The U.S. Centers for Disease Control Ebola fact sheet is an excellent source of information to learn the basics about Ebola, also known as Ebola hemorrhagic fever," said Maj. Arlene LeDoux, chief of Preventive Medicine, USAHC-V. "More detailed information is available as needed by calling 0444-61-9761."

If you recently (in the past three weeks) returned from Guinea, Liberia, Sierra Leone, or Nigeria and are experiencing fever and/or other symptoms listed above, contact your local Vicenza Health Center at DSN 636-9190, commercial 0444-61-9190 prior to coming to the clinic.

If you need assistance outside of normal duty hours, contact the Vicenza Military Police at DSN 636-7626, commercial 0444-71-7626. For medical emergencies, call 118.

Annual observance aims for cybersecurity as team effort

U.S. Army Europe

WIESBADEN, Germany

— U.S. Army Europe Cybersecurity officials want to remind members of the U.S. forces community in Europe that October 2014 marks the 11th annual National Cybersecurity Awareness Month and that it's everyone's duty to protect Army information and communications.

Today the Internet is part of everyone's life, every day. But while people routinely use the Internet at work, home, for enjoyment and to connect with friends and family, being constantly connected brings increased risk of theft, fraud, and abuse, said Daniel Hingtgen, chief of Cybersecurity, Policy, Programs and Training for the USAREUR office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Communications (G6).

No country, industry, community, or individual is immune to cyber risks. As a nation, Hingtgen noted, Americans face constant cyber threats against the nation's critical infrastructure and economy. As individuals, cybersecurity risks can threaten finances, identity and privacy.

"Our reliance on critical infrastructure and the digital technology that operates it makes cybersecurity one of the U.S. most important national security priorities, and one in which every American has a role to play," he said. "The slogan 'Cybersecurity is a team effort' underscores that shared responsibility."

During the month USAREUR cybersecurity officials say they plan to engage the Army in Europe community through events and initiatives designed to raise awareness, to educate people about cybersecurity, and to increase the resiliency of cyber infrastructure to prevent or respond to cyber incidents.

Free cybersecurity courses will be offered in communities across USAREUR, officials added, to provide social networking systems awareness and training to Soldiers, DoD civilian employees, contractor employees and family members in the Army in Europe community. Morning sessions will be offered from 9-11 a.m. and afternoon sessions from 1:30-3:30 p.m. at the Vicenza movie theater on Caserma Ederle, Oct. 20 USAREUR's cybersecurity experts also recommended some basic year-round cyber security tips:

- Set strong passwords and don't share them with anyone.
- Keep operating systems, browsers, and other critical software optimized by installing updates.
- Maintain an open dialogue with family, friends and community about Internet safety.
- Limit the amount of personal information you post online and use privacy settings to avoid over-sharing.
- Be cautious about what you receive or read online—if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

Exchange honors retirees with 'Still Serving' through Oct. 9

Army & Air Force Exchange Service Public Affairs

DALLAS — To pay tribute to veterans' enduring sacrifices, the Army & Air Force Exchange Service will salute America's 2.4 million military retirees with "Still Serving" events, a week of special savings and promotions designed to show appreciation.

From Oct. 3-9, military retirees can take advantage of in-store events along with discounts and giveaways online.

This year's discounts include 10 percent off one shopmyexchange.com order of $100 or more and $10 off any optical purchase of $100 or more when using their MILITARY STAR® card.

Exchange shoppers can also enter to win prizes on the Exchange's Facebook page at facebook.com/AAFES.BX.PX. Prizes include:

* A 10-piece Calphalon Unison Slide & Sear non-stick cookware set valued at $519.

* Nine Cuisinart kitchen appliances valued at $2,000.

* Special edition Harley-Davidson tool storage with a 309-piece mechanics tool set valued at $1,800.

In-store events during the week vary by location and may include refreshments, product samples, health clinics, cooking demonstrations and more.

"Retirees are an essential part of the total team. When retirees support the Exchange, they are a key enabler to the sustainment of quality-of-life programs for our installations and air bases. We honor their continual commitment, strength, sacrifice and service to our nation, said Exchange Command Engineer Col. Fabian Mendoza. "'Still Serving' is our annual effort to thank veterans for all they do on behalf of our military communities."

All authorized Exchange shoppers may take advantage of the discounts and events. For more information, call or visit any Exchange location.

Reserve Unit pays tribute to WW2 battle, veteran

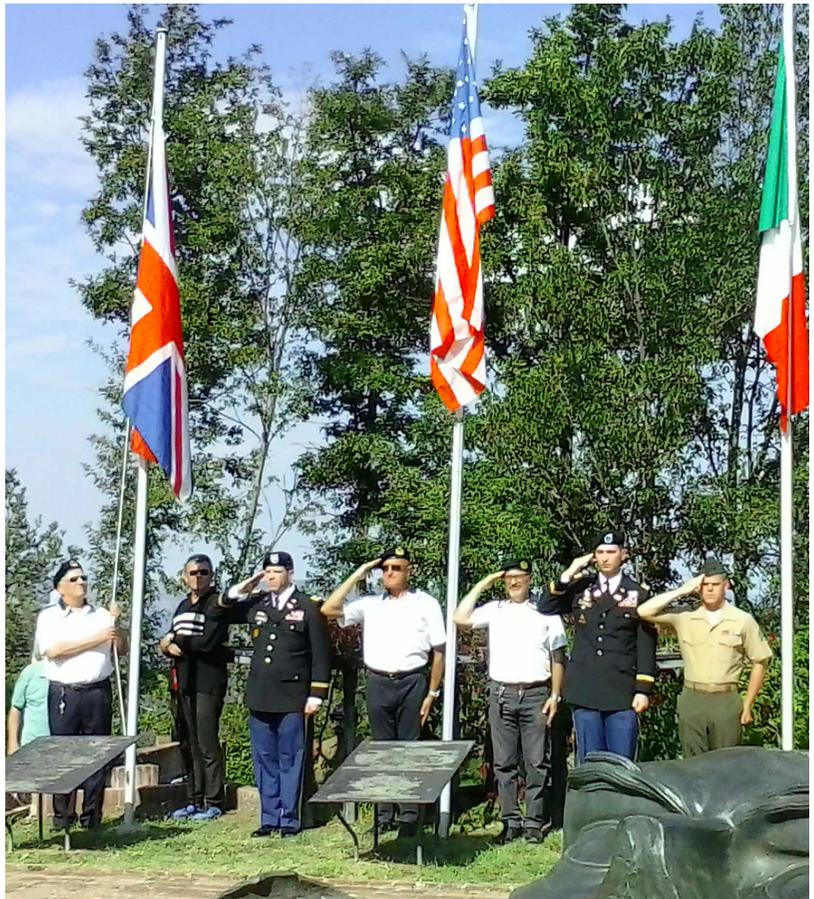

By Maj. Shaun P. Miller

2500th Digital Liaison Detachment

Members of the 2500th Digital Liaison Detachment based in Longare attended the 70th Anniversary of the World War II battle at Monte Battaglia near Castel Del Rio on Sept. 7. This site, better known as Battle Mountain by the Soldiers of the 88th Infantry Division (Blue Devils), experienced some of the fiercest fighting during Operation Olive along the Gothic Line. On Sept. 27, 1944, members of 2nd Battalion, 350th Infantry Regiment, were given the mission to seize and retain Mount Battaglia in order to keep this key terrain away from Nazi Germany. For seven days, surrounded on three sides, and facing elements of four enemy divisions, the Soldiers of 2nd Bn. repelled countless counterattacks which were preceded by heavy artillery and mortar fire. Each attack was met with fierce fire fights, use of flamethrowers by the enemy, hand-to-hand combat, bayonet charges and grenade duels. However, the men of the 2nd Bn. never gave up their position and at times when ammunition was running low had to resort to throwing rocks at the enemy in order to survive. Although casualties were grave, nearly 50 percent of the regiment, the officers and men of the battalion displayed an indomitable spirit that refused to waver under the fiercest enemy attacks.

During the 70th Anniversary, two Soldiers from the 2500th DLD, Maj. Shaun P. Miller and Capt. Joseph A. Rohman, had the distinct honor of escorting Pvt. 1st Class William Samuel "Sam" Studstill, a veteran of the battle, during the ceremony. Additionally, as Reserve Officers stationed overseas, they were given the honor of representing the U.S., which kept true to the lineage of the 88th Infantry Division. The 88th Inf. Div. was the first organized Reserve Division to go overseas, and also the first to enter combat.

Studstill said, "This is my 4th time to Monte Battaglia. The first time (in 1944) was not so nice. The last three have been wonderful. I want to thank the Italian people from the Santerno Valley, Castel del Rio and Casola Valsenio for everything they have done to preserve the memory of the sacrifices that were made on this mountaintop 70 years ago."

DRAWSKO-POMORSKIE TRAINING AREA, Poland – Members of Company D, 2nd Battalion, 503rd Infantry Regiment, 173rd Airborne Brigade based in Vicenza, Italy met with several key members of the Polish military and the mayor of Drawsko-Pomorskie, Poland Sept. 17 here for an outgoing ceremony as they prepared to depart the region, ending their rotation in Poland as part of Operation Atlantic Resolve. The operation is a multi-national training exercise designed to improve interoperability and showcase North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces' strength throughout the region.

The purpose of Atlantic Resolve is to demonstrate the U.S. solidarity with NATO allies by enhancing the presence of air, ground and naval forces in the region.

The 173rd Airborne Brigade arrived in Poland in late April and has since conducted three rotations of paratroopers through the training here, and has also been successful in building relationships with their host Polish population through several community outreach events. Soldiers from the Fort Hood, Texas-based 1st Brigade, 1st Cavalry Division will rotate to Poland as the next unit to participate in Atlantic Resolve.

"In addition to all the training we did here, we were able to meet and speak with veterans in the area, play a soccer game and interact with the local people," said Capt. Matthew M. McCarthy, commander of Company D. "We were able to meet and talk with kids at several schools. We even helped prepare one of the school's grounds by performing general labor and landscaping." Col. Marek Gmurski, commander of Polish Land Forces Training, said outgoing ceremonies like this are rare and not held for everyone, but praised both the unit and its leadership for rising above expectations, particularly by engaging the local population.

Capt. Matthew M. McCarthy, commander of Company D, 2nd Battalion, 503rd Infantry Regiment (Airborne) and Sgt. Marek Osowski from Company F, 2nd Bn, 503rd Inf. Regt. (Airborne), received special recognition during an outgoing ceremony Sept. 17 from Drawsko-Pomorski Mayor Zbigniew Ptak, and Col. Marek Gmurski, the head of Polish Land Forces Training. McCarthy received a commemorative coin and was recognized for his outstanding leadership and units' conduct. Osowski, a native of Poland, acted as translator for the unit.

"I wish Captain McCarthy all the best in the future and I hope the cooperation we enjoyed with the 173rd continues with other (American) units," said Gmurski.

Drawsko-Pomorskie Mayor Zbigniew Ptak said he has enjoyed having the U.S. military training in his area.

"I am very glad that the cooperation between the American Forces and the city of Drawsko-Pomorskie has been established, and I am glad with all the great things we have done, and I hope we will do more great things together."

Italian, U.S. gather at annual San Bortolo BBQ

Story and photos by Laura Kreider
USAG Vicenza PAO

Italian and American medical communities gathered for the annual San Bortolo barbecue held in the partially medieval cloister of the San Bortolo Hospital Sept. 25.

The event, which continues a tradition started in 2004, renews the bonds and partnership between the U.S. Army Health Center on Caserma Ederle and their Italian counterparts.

This year, many Vicenza Health Center staff members cooked about 500 hamburgers and 300 hot dogs for their Italian colleagues and other participants.

"This is fantastic," said Col. Andrew Barr USAHC commander, after addressing the Italian staff and thanking them for their support of the Vicenza Military Community.

"We try to give a nice couple of hours when they come out for a lunch break, get a good American food enjoy the weather and that kind of hospitality. Then they go back to work and take care of our community, Soldiers and family members," said Barr.

He also added how Soldiers love to go and volunteer for this event.

"It's about the same turnout every year. We try to plan as much as we can and it seems to go very well," Barr added.

After a ceremonial presentation Col. Barr and Dr. Tiziana Sagazio, M.D., deputy director general of Vicenza's San Bortolo Hospital, cut the Italian and American cakes that symbolize the friendship between the two communities for more than 50 years.

"We are like siblings in this relationship to take the best care of the American community," expressed Sagazio after receiving a memento from Col. Barr in recognition of San Bortolo Hospital support.

Sagazio thanked her American guests who, once again, continued

Athletes begin their run on the American Beach Sept. 13 during the fourth annual Duathlon. This was one of the final activities at the American Beach.

Annual Duathlon brings athletes to beach

Story and photos by Amy Drummond
Darby Military Community PAO

The Fourth Annual Darby Military Community Duathlon was held at the American Beach Sept. 13. This event was one of the final activities at the American Beach before the beach is returned to the Italian government this fall.

Eight women and ten men turned out to test their might in the challenging duathlon that consisted of a .75 mile run, followed by a 600 yard swim and another .75 mile run. All eighteen participants completed the race and earned bragging rights.

First time participant Cristi Flynn said, "It was fun, a good challenge, especially the last beach run, because the water was shallow for the swim. Getting on my back and kicking was better than walking or just swimming."

The top male finisher was Francesco Romano with a time of 19 minutes, 10 seconds and the top female finisher was Coral Owen with a time of 22 minutes, 7 seconds. Trophies were awarded to the top male and female finishers.

Second time participant, Gavin Trzepacz said, "It was a definite challenge over other races because it is on the beach, not in the pool ... that is what makes it fun."

Following the event athletes were treated to breakfast on the beach and perfect weather to enjoy one of the final days of the American Beach.

Army Material Command commander visits Camp Darby

General Dennis L. Via, commander of the Army Material Command, visits the Darby Military Community earlier this month. During his visit, the general and his wife met with families stationed at Camp Darby and numerous facilities including the school.

Story and photos by Chiara Mattiolo Darby Military Community PAO

General Dennis L. Via, commander of the Army Material Command visited the 405th Army Field Support Battalion-Italy as well as USAG-Vicenza and the Darby Military Community Sept. 6-11.

"Gen. Via stressed the importance of the mission here at Darby/Leghorn," said Maj. Dennis Williams, Camp Darby Military Community Deputy Garrison Manager. "He recognized the strategic importance of this installation and stated that the future Darby/Leghorn missions are extremely important."

AFSBN-Italy has been designated as a European site for maintaining, receiving, shipping and storing APS-2, Operational Project, and State Department stocks. Army prepositioned and humanitarian stocks have been deployed to support operations to include Desert Storm, Restore Hope, Enduring Freedom, Iraqi Freedom and War on Terrorism. Humanitarian aid has been sent from the activity to crisis areas including Somalia, Afghanistan, Bosnia, Kosovo, Palestine, Algeria and Jordan.

Gen. Via came to Livorno accompanied by his wife, Linda, who spent some time learning about the special programs offered by the Army Community Services.

"Mrs. Via was very impressed with the ACS mode of messaging and advertising for employment opportunities for military or civilian spouses and shared ideas on how we can improve our support services by requesting feedback from families," said Williams.

Linda Via also visited the Child Development Center and the Livorno Unit School during her permanence at Camp Darby.

"She showed great interest on how we gauge our students' scholastic standing with such a small school population," Williams said. "She also highlighted the advantages of living in a small community such as teachers having more one-on-one time with students."

Linda Via mentioned the outstanding accreditation of the International school of Florence.

At the movies

The Equalizer

McCall is a former black ops commando who has faked his death to live a quiet life in Boston. When he comes out of his self-imposed retirement to rescue a young girl, Teri, he finds himself face to face with ultra-violent Russian gangsters. As he serves vengeance against those who brutalize the help... Moreless, McCall's desire for justice is reawakened. If someone has a problem, the odds are stacked against them, and they have nowhere else to turn, McCall will help. He is The Equalizer.
